DIVINE SERVICES HELD IN LOCAL HOUSES OF WORSHIP

Rev. Geo. M. Rourke at the Presbyterian Church Preaches a Powerful Sermon on "Recklessness"—Dr. J. H. Fitzwater of Delaware Preaches at Wesley M. E. Church—At Calvary a Baptismal Service and Reception of Members Takes Place Sunday Morning—Rev. Mr. Currin at the First Baptist—Sacred Concert is Rendered by Epworth M. E. Choir.

"If Harry Thaw is acquitted of the murder of Stanford White, it will be one of the greatest calamities the country has ever met, for it will convey the impression that the rich man, even though a murderer, cannot be made to answer for his crime," was an opening remark of Rev. G. M. Rourke at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday evening, when he delivered a powerful sermon on the theme of "Recklessness."

Continuing Rev. Rourke said, "It is a tremendously fast life we are living, a reckless one and a most dangerous one too. In every daily paper is disclosed the vast amount of recklessness, railroad wrecks, accidents of every conceivable nature and crime. Man can stab in cold blood one of his fellow creatures and it will be looked upon by many people as a mere circumstance."

The pastor took for his text a part of the fourth verse of the Twenty-seventh Chapter of St. Matthew, "What is that to us." Said the pastor: "Many people support the idea that a preacher has no business to diverge into civic problems. He should be sorter dreamy—so sweet and mild; never say anything that hurts the common nature."

"Don't preach about money, don't say anything about civic righteousness, murder and crime is out of your line, for that is what the courts are for; just preach the plain Bible—Noah's ark and Solomon's temple—and then you'll be doing your duty and these are the ideas of many people," said Rev. Rourke.

"I emphatically say that it is something to us, it is our business to handle civic problems, and it is time that the church of God is arousing itself to both ethical and civic questions. If the church does not stand as a medium between righteousness and unrighteousness, then its principles are lacking and like the house builded upon the sands, will wither away."

"Extravagance is the curse of the American people. People are living beyond their means regardless of the consequence," declared the speaker.
"All furniture is not mahogany that has a mahogany finish. Mock modesty is the curse of society, the soap bubble. People are carried away like chaff in the wind and endless sorrow and suffering is the goal of a person who lives beyond his means," he said.

Continuing, Rev. Rourke referred to the recent newspaper prophecy of an approaching panic. Commenting upon it he said, "If rottenness must be cleaned out by destroying the nation, I say destroy it. We are living in a day of graft. This country cannot go on in the way that it has within the past several years. It is a day that the rich man will have his demands, if not by honest means by faulty ones. It is a day when houses go up like mushrooms, no care for comfort, just so they draw the rent and the grafter is satisfied."

In conclusion, Rev. Rourke declared the cause of the present situation of affairs is lack of discipline. Discipline manufactures judgment and upon this hinges the fate of a nation.

The regular monthly sacred concert at Epworth M. E. Church Sunday night, attracts a large congregation and the service was intensely interesting. These musicales are growing more and more popular and is a feature that other churches of the city are contemplating adopting.

The music rendered in last night's program was all of high musical consequence. The choir, comprising forty-five voices under the direction of Prof. Frederiek Berryman, were the artists in the excellent entertainment. The soprano soloists were Mrs. Charles Allen and Miss Carmen Blow. The accompaniments were played by Miss Jessie Havill.

The program opened with an anthem, "Dream of Paradise"—Gray, by the entire choral union. After the opening devotional exercises a male quartette with soprano obligato from Lansing was pleasingly rendered by Messrs. J. W. Jacoby, J. H. Waddell, T. J. Mills and H. Martin; Mrs. Allen sopranos obligato.

After an anthem, "O pray for the Peace of Jerusalem," by the choir, Miss Jessie Havill rendered a highly entertaining organ solo, "Gavotte"— Flagler.

Following a short talk on the theme of "Music," by the pastor Rev. D. H. Bailey, Mr. L. B. Mc-Neal rendered a pleasing flute solo, "Kettelby."

An anthem, "I Waited for the Lord"—Mendelssohn, was sung by the choir and the program closed with a postlude, "March de Fete"— Rhinberger, by Miss Havill.

"Home Missions and Church Extension," was the subject of a very interesting discourse delivered last night at Wesley M. E. church by Rev. J. H. Fitzwater, of Delaware, formerly presiding elder of the Delaware district of the Methodist church.

Rev. Fitzwater last week commenced his duties as one of the secretaries of the Home Mission and church extension department of the church and his address last night was made in the interests of that department.

The speaker stated that only recently the Mission department of the church included both the Home and Foreign missions but in order to further the work the Home and Foreign departments were separated. Money is now being raised all over the United States for the extension of churches in America and the evangelization of the entire country.

Rev. Fitzwater said that the church is constantly growing in knowledge and is becoming more powerful. At the present time there are fifteen thousand students in the Methodist colleges where only a short time ago the number was very much less. Eighty thousand new members have been brought into the church in the past year.

"The people are calling out for the old time religion," said he,
"but it seems that there is nothing new about this religion that you have used to bring so many converts to the altar during the few weeks of your revival. Nothing new in the religion is needed or has anything new been added.
It is the same religion today that it was many years ago and will be the same in years to come."

"The foreigners are coming into the United States at an alarming rate and filling all of the larger cities. This element must be looked after and in order to spread religion to them, we must have it ourselves. It is hoped by the church leaders to bring many people to the Lord during the coming year and every church in the district is expected to lend its financial and its normal assistance."

After the sermon a collection was taken for the department with which Rev. Fitzwater is identified.
Tonight at the church a jubilee meeting will be held and all of the converts of the church will be brought together and given an opportunity to join the church. The revivals have been in progress for eight weeks during which about 150 converts have been made. At the meeting tonight it will be decided whether or not the revivals will be continued.

Commencement on Mt. Herman with the Great Teacher, Christ; or upon the Great Divide as seen in the Transfiguration, told by a custom house official was the topic of Rev. Mr. Currin at the First Baptist church yesterday morning.

The opening exercises were significant of the story which has increased in interest with the century's telling. Said Rev. Currin, "Christ was spectacular. Once in a while he lowered the shutters and the divine light floods forth, thus showing dignified the faith of the three choice souls, Peter, James and John.

"It's good to put men on the back now and then. About a week ago they had called him the Christ, the son of the living God.
Such a trust also needed nourishing for future testings. Two old attendants returned to their Alma Matre. What encouragement an alumnus of Granville's and Delaware's First class could give the classes of 1907. Moses and Elijah give a glimpse of the past indeed.
They first told of the school of law as it was in his day 1500 years ago; Elijah of theology 700 years ago."

"Their story warmed the disciple before for future deeds. During the telling of their thrilling episodes and of the coming of Christ, two clean essentials were offered them; by the presence of the Father and His directing voice. Life is full of voices, telling in "Hear ye Him".
Amid the overmastering of the disciples, Christ is recognized as the great Only One.

"Such a condition puts yokes of obligation upon him. The foothills are full of the "possessed". Cures take place only through a transfiguration, founded on confession and deepened in prayer." Rev. Currin mentioned the dividing of raindrops on a house top, near Marion, Ohio's great divide, one passing into the Atlantic by the north water course and the other south to join in mid ocean. So Christ's life coming from the bosom of the father went up to this great Divide and down the other side through humiliation of the Garden and cross and passed back to the bosom of His father with over glorified humanity and there waits the final issue.

In the evening Rev. Currin spoke on "A Stool Company," as founded in Luke 19:12, prefacing it with a ten minute prelude on an incident in his rambles among the caves of LaJolla, Cal., on the coast of the Pacific.

A baptismal service and reception of members took the place of the sermon at Calvary church Saturday morning.

The membership also yesterday forenoon gave a recommendation for the ministry to Mr. W. R. Shisler, who is a member of Calvary church, and is pursuing a course of study in Northwestern college at Naperville, Illinois, preparatory to a course in the Theological seminary located at the same place.

At 3 p. m., the local Woman's Missionary Society held their annual day of prayer service in behalf of the missionary work of the denomination.

The evening evangelistic service was much the best of the series.
These services will continue through the week. Special music each evening.

At the service the pastor, Rev.
Mr. Hensel, took as his text Luke 15, 17-20 and spoke in part as follows:

"Among the manifold forms of life, none is so marvelous as the soul of man, and among battlefields, there is none more interesting or important than the struggle of the soul with sin."

"Want, shame, abandonment, misery—the messengers of God—brought on the struggle in the prodigal's soul that resulted in a transition from rebellion to penitence. God's mercy is evidenced in the possibility of penitence after prodigality. But the spirit of God will not always strive through these messengers. An awakened conscience unappeased goes farther into rebellion."

"The steps in his transition included memory—of home, childhood, and its purity, father, his strength and tenderness and mother's love.
Then there comes a loathing of self, and a hatred of sin, not merely its penalties; and a longing for reconciliation. Once his spirit was rebellious, now it is softened; once defiant, now humbled. The hand so lately lifted against heaven now smiles his breast in penitence."

"He realizes how mistaken are his notions of life, and how deluded he has been. The proud heart humbles to confession; and from despondency he arises to decision."
